

OYSTERS ON THE HALF SHELL

Touch a giant oyster's heart, watch fish, crabs and other critters swim by as oysters filter Chesapeake Bay water in an 850-gallon aquarium, meet a living Maryland Diamond Back Terrapin and a 455-million-year-old horseshoe crab, climb aboard a real waterman's workboat, see how oysters are harvested, and hear the authentic voices of the people who shucked and packed oysters in the historic McNasby Oyster Company building. The last oyster-packing plant in the state's capital is an appropriate setting for this engaging, interactive exhibit that highlights both the natural history of the oyster and the cultural history of the people who made their living in the oyster industry.

Funded by generous grants from the Chesapeake Bay Gateways and Watertrails Network, Maryland Heritage Areas Authority, Chesapeake Bay Trust, the Carol M. Jacobsohn Foundation, the City of Annapolis, and donations from the Boatyard Bar & Grill, Maureen & Bill Torgerson, Kent "K.C." Guernsey & Laura Carlisle, John & Sue Neely, and the members of the Annapolis Maritime Museum. It is dedicated to the memory of Peg Wallace, co-founder and Chairman Emeritus.

This exhibition has been financed in part with State Funds from the Maryland Heritage Areas Authority, an instrumentality of the State of Maryland. However, the contents and opinions do not necessarily reflect the view or policies of the Maryland Heritage Areas Authority. This brochure was financed in part by the Four Rivers Heritage Area.

ANNAPOLIS MARITIME MUSEUM

Connect with our unique maritime heritage & the Chesapeake Bay

WELCOME TO THE MUSEUM

The Annapolis Maritime Museum connects visitors, residents and especially students to Annapolis' unique maritime heritage and the natural wonder of the Chesapeake Bay. The Museum operates from a waterside campus on the shores of Back Creek, with unequalled views of the Chesapeake Bay. The Museum campus is the site of the last remaining oyster packing plant in the area, the McNasby Oyster Company building. The historic McNasby building is the ideal setting for meaningful waterfront education experiences, maritime seminars, concerts and other programs and events.

The Museum campus comprises the City-owned 7,000-square-foot McNasby Oyster Company building and the 600-square-foot Barge House. It provides rare access to the waters of the Chesapeake Bay with the Cap'n Herbie Sadler Waterman's Park, TKF Meditation Garden, a picnic deck with three piers for fishing, crabbing or visiting by boat, and a small beach where you can launch your own canoe, kayak or tennis-ball retriever. The Museum has permanent and rotation exhibits and an ongoing calendar of special events. For details, see www.amaritime.org.

HOST YOUR EVENT HERE!

Hold your own event at the Museum with its unique maritime atmosphere and magnificent waterfront view. Call 410-295-0104 or visit www.amaritime.org.

MUDDY FEET

The Museum's innovative watershed education initiative, the "Maritime Undaunted Damp & Dirty Yucky Fun Environmental Education & Training" program, connects students in Anne Arundel County public schools with our unique maritime heritage and the natural wonder of the Chesapeake Bay. It is funded by the NOAA Bay Watershed Education & Training program, the Carol M. Jacobsohn Foundation, the City of Annapolis, and the Bank of America Foundation. For info, call 410-295-0104.

TREASURE OUR WATERS

School groups from all over can learn about one of our most valuable natural resources — the water — and its interaction with people and the ecosystem of the Chesapeake Bay. Students explore water conservation, observe the roles of wetlands, and learn about the importance of oysters in water quality. Students will spend half the time ashore at the Museum and half on a boat examining Bay waters up close. For rates & schedules, contact Watermark Cruises, 410-268-7601 or www.watermarkcruises.com.

MARITIME CONCERTS & SEMINARS

The Museum uses music to inspire better stewardship of our natural resources, with outdoor concerts in the summer and indoor concerts year-round, featuring traditional and original maritime artists from the Chesapeake Bay and all the Seven Seas. Seminars feature a full range of fascinating topics, from maritime heritage and traditions to art, natural history and environmental issues. For schedules, see www.amaritime.org.

THOMAS POINT SHOAL LIGHTHOUSE TOURS

Explore this 1875 National Historic Landmark, the last screwpile lighthouse left in its original location.

Tour boats run visitors out to the lighthouse for a one-hour guided tour aboard this icon of the Bay. For info & reservations, call 410-295-0104 or visit www.amaritime.org.
